June 7: A Jazz Age lawn party took place on Governors Island, that oasis of calm, a five-minute free boat ride from the tip of Manhattan. Michael Arenella organized the event, and his Dreamland Orchestra provided dance music on a floor set on the sprawling lawn of the parade ground, shaded by century-old trees. Many of the guests dressed in the styles of the '20s and '30s; some took their antique cars over on the ferry. The event was sponsored by the Governors Island Preservation and Education Corporation.
